Students of the FLAME institute celebrated a day of football on their campus recently. The day started with a three-hour seminar coached by English Premier League and now Pune FC head coach, Stewart Hall and his coaching team, taking a group of male and female students through a number of training drills. They went through drills for improving shooting, ball control and mind/body co-ordination, as well as fitness drills and having the chance to spend time with a physio who could take them through warm-ups and cool-down techniques.

Later, a match was held between FLAME and the Pune FC under-19 team. A closely fought contest eventually saw the Pune FC team winning.

Sporting activities are compulsory for the first year students of the institute during their first three semesters and is optional for the second year students.
